

Children and Young People

Article 13

1. Adverts must not exploit the natural credulity of children or the lack of experience of young people.
2. Adverts which are addressed to children or young people or which are likely to influence children or young people should not contain elements or optical representations, which may harm them mentally, morally or physically.